Introduction to American Government

Summer II 2023 | Online 100%

Classroom: Canvas

Professor: Dr. Benjamin Gross

Office: Digital

Office Hours: Virtual meetings via Microsoft Teams

E-mail: Bgross@jsu.edu

“Let reverence for the laws, be breathed by every American mother, to the lisping babe, that prattles on her lap – let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges; – let it be written in Primers, spelling books, and in Almanacs; – let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation...When I so pressingly urge a strict observance of all the laws, let me not be understood as saying there are no bad laws, nor grievances may not arise, for the redress of which, no legal provisions have been made. I mean to say no such thing. But I do mean to say, that, although bad laws, if they exist, should be repealed as soon as possible, still while they continue in force, for the sake of example, they should be religiously observed...There is no grievance that is a fit object of redress of mob law...Passion has helped us, but can do so no more. It will in future be our enemy. Reason, cold, calculating, unimpassioned reason, must furnish all the materials for our future support and defense. Let those materials be molded into general intelligence, sound morality and, in particular, a reverence for the constitution and laws...
- Abraham Lincoln, “The Perpetuation of our Political Institutions” (January 27, 1838)

Course Description & Rationale:

Why should we study American government? You already live in the United States; what is there to study? To answer this question, we must reflect on our situation. During your lifetime, public (and private) education has decreased its focus on civic education. This extends to higher education, as one study finds only 14% of universities require students to take an American government or history course. While some are trying to reverse this trend, it does not seem likely to change any time soon.

As quoted above, Abraham Lincoln thinks if the American experiment of free government will continue, then we must teach a type of political religion. In essence, Americans must develop a reverence for the laws, which will be taught in the family, holy houses, the government itself, and – perhaps most importantly to us – the schools and colleges. If voting rates are any indication, then Lincoln may be correct that a people without a civic education are a risk to free government. Thus, it seems we need this course as a way educating us, the citizens, to maintain free government.

But is Lincoln correct; do we need this political religion to maintain American government? Do we need to study American government to be good citizens? Luckily, for us, through our studies, we will be able to examine questions such as this and others through developing our civic knowledge. The design of this course is to support you examination of fundamental questions concerning American government that are important for citizens of that government. The rationale of this course, therefore, is to provide students with a civic education concerning their national government to assist them in becoming educated citizens of that government.

To facilitate this rationale, the course will examine the origin and development of the U.S. Constitution, the structure of the national government (including the departments/branches of the government), federalism, civil liberties and rights, the role of political parties, interest groups, and the media for political life, political socialization and participation, campaigns and elections, and public policy. Through examining these topics, this course will provide you with information to examine your own opinions regarding what is required to support free government in the United States.

Course Goals:

By the end of the course, you will be able to:

- Explain weaknesses of the Articles of Confederation and how the Constitution addresses these.
- Describe the departments, actors, powers, and relationships of the federal government.
- Understand the difference between a civil liberty and civil right.
- Comprehend how political values & ideologies shape our understanding of government.
- Clarify how parties, interest groups, & media assist American government.
- Recognize how current sources of contention in economic, domestic, and foreign policies are rooted in debates from the foundations of the American political system.
- Experience portions of American government through simulations.
- Breakdown barriers preventing civic engagement.
- Acquire a greater sense of your role in society and governing.

Assignments & Grading:

Six Online Simulations	7.5% per simulation
Representative Letter	10%
Three Exams	15% per exam

Grading Scale:

A = 90-100%
B = 80-89%
C = 70-79%
D = 60-69%
F = <60%

Assignment Details:

Readings & Virtual Presentations:

While not graded, students should read their textbooks. A schedule of the readings is available at the end of the syllabus. By reading, you will come to the virtual presentations prepared. This will also assist you in your simulations.

Like readings, virtual presentations are not graded. These presentations, however, highlight key materials from the readings. In addition, they add updated and supplemental material that is not within the readings. Each virtual presentation is between five- to twenty-minutes in length (the average is around twelve minutes).

Students should do their best to follow the pace of the course (i.e. readings and virtual presentations). This will assist in learning the material and preparing you for the exams. I do not advise cramming readings and virtual presentations.

Online Simulations:

There are six online simulations. Each simulation takes place via www.icivics.org. To complete the online simulations, you must join our course on this website.

To join our course visit the website. Click "Register" in the upper-right hand corner of the page. Then click "Register As A Student." Our class code is Chase37822 and our password is GoGamecocks. You cannot pick a Username; you, however, can generate a new random name until you find one that you like. Next, enter your First and Last names. Add your e-mail account too. This will allow you to access your account if you forget your password. Then click "Next." This will bring you to the page to create your password. Write down your password somewhere safe (e.g., password keeper in your phone). Congratulations, you are a member of our course's online simulations!

Each of the six online simulations connect with topics from virtual presentations. While you can, theoretically, complete a simulation prior to this virtual presentation, the online discussion board does not open until the corresponding virtual presentation goes live. I advise you complete the online simulation after completing its corresponding virtual presentation. Otherwise, you will be unable to complete the assignment with the necessary information, which will lower your grade.

Students must complete the simulation and corresponding discussion board post on Canvas, by the due dates. Below are the dates the simulations open and are due by:

- Race to Ratify – Opens at 12:01am June 28 // Due by 11:59pm July 2
- LawCraft – Opens at 12:01am June 30 // Due by 11:59pm July 7
- Executive Command – Opens at 12:01am July 11 // Due by 11:59pm July 16
- Argument Wars – Opens at 12:01am July 13 // Due by 11:59pm July 19
- NewsFeed Defender – Opens at 12:01am July 21 // Due by 11:59pm July 26
- Win the White House – Opens at 12:01am July 25 // Due by 11:59pm July 31

Representative Letter:

The focus of this class is providing students with a civic education. Our writing assignment invites students to engage with their real-world political life. Students will write an appropriate letter, concerning any topic that interests them, to one of their elected representatives.

An additional handout on Wednesday, July 5 provides specific details regarding this assignment. The letter is due on Monday, July 24 at 11:59 pm. In general, there are four-major steps to the assignment:

1. Find a topic you find interesting. Your letter can be critical, complementarily, information seeking, or persuasive in nature, regarding this topic.
2. Based on this topic, find your appropriate elected representative to receive your letter. This can be a municipal, county, state, or federal representative.
3. Write a letter to this representative and place it in a properly addressed sealed envelope, with the appropriate postage.
4. Submit the digital file of your letter and a photo of the sealed envelope to Canvas. The professor will review both in grading your assignment.

Exams:

There are three section exams during the semester. Each section exam consists of 50 multiple-choice questions covering the material from the textbook, virtual presentations, and online simulations of that module.

The final exam consists of 50 multiple-choice questions. It differs from the section exams only in that the 50 questions cover material from the entire semester. The 50 questions come directly from the section exams. Thus, you can use your section exam study guides to prepare for the final exam.

Students will take their section exams via Canvas on July 7, July 19, and July 31. The final exam is on August 1. Exams are available from 12:01 am to 11:59 pm on these dates.

Each student has one hour to complete an exam once she opens it. To use the full hour, students must begin the exam prior to 10:59 pm. The professor is available from 8 am to 5 pm during exam days. If you encounter a technology issue, please e-mail the professor immediately. He will find a resolution to your error. If an error occurs outside the 8 am to 5 pm timeframe, the student is responsible for her grade on the exam (i.e. the professor will not change the grade).

Students can use their textbooks, notes, and the internet during the exam. With only 60 minutes to complete 50 questions, however, students need to prepare for this exam as if it was closed book, no notes, and technology free to be successful.

Students CANNOT share preparation materials. If the professor finds students shared information before, during, or after the exam, through any medium, those engaging in the behavior will receive an “F” in the course. Such a violation will also cause all future exams to be essay exams for the entire course. Stated simply, DO NOT CHEAT.

I know that test taking is not everyone’s forte. Furthermore, it is possible we have a bad day, get sick, experience a technological error, or have something that prevents us from fully preparing for an exam. Thus, of the four exams, only three apply to a student’s final grade. Students, therefore, will drop their lowest exam score. If a student is satisfied with their grades from their three section exams, they can elect to not take the final exam (as the final exam is then the exam dropped from the student’s final grade). Since students drop their lowest exam score, there are no make-up exams.

Classroom Behavior:

Although we do not meet face-to-face, all students are expected to act with courtesy and regard for one another. Since this course concerns politics, online discussions can get passionate. During these discussions, we will treat everyone with respect. This means reading and reflecting on a classmate’s post/thought before responding. In our responses, we will debate ideas (not people), use a civil tone, and refuse to engage in personal attacks. During our dialogues, I ask you all to respect the viewpoints of your fellow students. Viewpoints, however, are fair to investigate and challenge.

Multiple studies suggest the key to success in online courses is treating it like a physical course. I have designed the course pace and assignment schedule as if we were a face-to-face summer course. Please treat this course as if we meet in-person for two-hours per day. I have done my best to break up the activities for each day into segments, however, in case you cannot block out a full two hours.

In addition, time management is a critical part of success (especially within an online course). Other common findings for success in online courses includes establishing a good workspace, seeking help when needed, and eliminating distractions. Please, the moment you are feeling lost, reach out to me. I am happy to help those that communicate.

Finally, I suggest all students take physical notes as they read and engage with virtual presentations. Research shows that taking physical notes helps us to learn.

Other Policies:

Late Work:

I only accept the Representative Letter after its due date. Every day it is late the submissions losses three points. One week after its due date, I will no longer accept the assignment. Any student, who does not submit this assignment on time, or within the one-week late period, will receive a zero.

Online simulations and exams are not accepted after their due dates. There are no extensions for these assignments.

Make-up Online Simulations & Exams:

As explained in the Assignment Details section of this syllabus, there are no make-up exams. In addition, there are no make-up online simulations. There are a limited number of high-quality online simulations. The professor does not have additional resources to provide make-up simulations. Instead, the professor provides students with an ample amount of time to complete simulations. Students need to complete simulations in the planned timeframe.

Academic Integrity:

This course does not tolerate academic dishonesty. The professor adheres to and enforces JSU's policy on academic honesty (e.g., cheating, plagiarism, forgery, fabrication, facilitating academic dishonesty, and sabotage). I address violations of academic integrity in compliance with the procedures laid out in JSU's student handbook (see page 100). You can learn more about academic dishonesty here. In addition, the use of Artificial Intelligence is considered academic dishonesty.

Campus Resources for Writing:

The Writing Center offers several free in-person and online services including writing and digital writing consultations, virtual presentation audiences, ESL conversation partners, and special-topics workshops for all JSU faculty, staff, and students. A team of undergraduate and graduate consultants are trained to assist with academic, personal, and professional writing. Appointments can be scheduled through the Navigate app. For more information, visit here.

Tutoring resources at JSU:

All JSU students can access online tutoring assistance through tutor.com. To access tutor.com, log into Canvas and click the tutor.com link in the navigation pane.

For more information about tutor.com contact Debra James at dmjames@jsu.edu.

Accommodations:

Jacksonville State University is committed to creating an inclusive learning environment that meets the needs of its diverse student body. If you are currently experiencing or anticipate that you will have any barriers to learning in this course, please feel welcome to discuss your concerns with me.

It is my goal to create a learning experience that is as accessible as possible. If you have a disability, or think you may have a disability, that may have some impact on your work in this course and for which you may require academic adjustments or accommodations, please work with a staff member in Disability Resources so that accommodations can be considered. Students that receive accommodation letters, or Individualized Post-Secondary Plans (IPPs) should meet with me to discuss the provisions of your accommodations as early in the semester as possible.

You can find more information about the Office of Disability Resources on the web or by visiting the Student Success Center on the 2nd Floor of the Houston Cole Library. You may also call (256) 782-8380 or email at disabilityresources@jsu.edu. All discussions will remain confidential.

Religious Observances:

If assigned work conflicts with your religious holidays, please tell me in advance so we can make alternative plans. Informing me of religious obligations after the fact, however, will not count as an excuse.

Military-Connected Student Statement:

The Office of Veteran Services serves all active duty, guard, reserve, veteran, and dependent students at JSU. If you have any questions about Veteran Services, please contact them at (256) 782-8838, veterans@jsu.edu, or at the physical location in the basement of Daugette Hall.

If you are a student currently serving in the military (Active Duty, Guard, or Reserves) with the potential of being called to military service or training during the course of the semester, you are encouraged to contact me no later than the first week of class to discuss the class attendance policy. I may make accommodations for this absence or suggest that you take the course at another time.

Title IX:

JSU does not discriminate on the basis of sex in the educational programs or activities that it operates. JSU is required, by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and the Department of Education regulations to implement Title IX, not to discriminate in such a manner. This requirement to not discriminate in educational programs and activities extends to employment by the university and to admission thereto. This may include sexual harassment, sexual misconduct, domestic violence, dating violence, stalking and other conduct that is addressed in our "Sex-Based Harassment and Misconduct Policy."

Anyone with knowledge of this type of conduct is asked to immediately report such incidents to the University Police Department at (256) 782-5050 or the Title IX Coordinator at (256) 782-5769. If an individual wishes to keep the information confidential, the individual speak with a counselor at the Counseling Services office at (256) 782-5475 or a medical provider at JSU's Health Center (256) 782-5310.

For more information about Title IX or to report a concern, please visit the JSU Title IX webpage at <http://www.jsu.edu/titleix>.

Withdraws:

Please be advised, the last date to withdraw from the course without academic penalty is Tuesday, July 25. There are other important dates regarding withdrawing from the course concerning refunding your tuition and if you receive an academic penalty, which you can find here. If you choose to stop attending the course, it is your responsibility to withdraw from the course. If you do not withdraw from the course, the professor will enter the grade you have earned as your final grade.

Student Notifications:

I post all notifications on Canvas via the Announcements section of our course. Be sure to check these for all notifications.

E-mail Policy:

I will do my best to respond to all e-mails within 24 hours. All e-mails that can be answered via the syllabus will receive the response: "Please refer to your syllabus." and a picture of Alf.

To ensure you have read the syllabus prior to e-mailing me, the first e-mail you send me must include a picture of a platypus. If your first e-mail does not have a picture of a platypus, I will respond to your e-mail with: "Please review the syllabus." This policy ensures that you have helped yourself by using the tools I have provided you.

To help response time, please include an appropriate subject line in your e-mail. Furthermore, please take time to construct a formal e-mail with proper etiquette and language. E-mails constructed in a manner like, “Yo, Mrs B i will b submitting the thing late 2day” or using emojis to represent words/ideas will receive the response, “Please refer to your syllabus.” and a picture of Godzilla.

How to be Successful in this Class:

The best way to be successful is to be prepared. Being prepared means reading all of the assignment carefully and, most likely, rereading the assignment prior to the virtual presentations. By reading the textbook prior to class, you will be able to get the most out of the virtual presentations, clearly see the information that the textbook and your professor are highlighting, and understand what changes have occurred to American government since the publication of your textbook.

Furthermore, good note taking is vital. Take physical notes. Learn to listen carefully. I find students who write down the questions asked, and then the responses to these questions, are the most successful. If you only write down the answer, the note is meaningless, as it lacks the context of the question.

After class, review your notes to see if they make sense. By reviewing them sooner than later, you will be able to remember things from class to sort out any points of confusion in your notes.

Finally, if you start to think or feel that you are getting lost please contact the professor. It is easier to help you get back on track when issues are starting than after they have grown.
